

Has technology played a role in your grieving process?

If you have, please consider participating in my academic study. I'm specifically looking for people who have:

Used social media or online obituaries or legacy sites to post memories of your loved ones?

Have you sent emails or texts to people who are gone?

Have you participated in an online funeral?

Have you used a chatbot to talk to the deceased??

IF you do any of these things, you have valuable information to contribute to a research project on Digital Death Tech.

If you are interested in participating in this study, please email me at r.c.shakti@tilburguniversity.edu for more information.
